

BISHOP GIVES GRADUATION ADDRESS

Offers Pontifical Mass At Ten O'clock, June 1

The Most Rev. John G. Bennett, D.D., first Bishop of the diocese of Lafayette and an alumnus of St. Joseph's, will deliver the baccalaureate address at the commencement exercises. The ceremonies will begin at two o'clock, central daylight time, Sunday afternoon, June 1, and will take place in the college theatre.

In the morning the Bishop will celebrate a Solemn Pontifical Mass in the chapel. Procession of both the college and academy graduates into the chapel will begin at ten o'clock. All the graduates will be garbed in the usual academic costume, cap and gown.

Approximately thirty college seniors will receive bachelor's degrees at the afternoon exercises. This figure may vary somewhat as June 1 approaches, with the turning in of more of the required baccalaureate essays. Preceding the conferring of the diplomas, winners of the literary contests will be awarded prizes, and students holding high academic ratings will be recognized.

Tom Jordan, Indianapolis freshman, will be awarded fifty dollars as first prize in the Mary J. Pursley Contest for creative writing. Robert Burns, also an Indianapolis freshman, will receive twenty-five dollars, the first prize in the Alumni Essay Contest.

As president of the senior class, Tom Scollard, Indianapolis, will deliver the valedictory address in the name of the graduating class.

Received LL.D. Last May

The Most Reverend Bishop, who attended St. Joseph's from 1906 to 1909, was one of three bishops, all alumni, who received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from St. Joseph's, May 8, 1946.

Bishop Bennett's last official appearance in Collegeville was at the funeral Mass of the late Rev. Anthony B. Paluszak, c.p.p.s., who died last September. Father Paluszak was a former parishoner of Bishop Bennett's at Garrett, Ind.

Club Votes To Alter Key, Adopt Standard

At the last meeting of the year the members of the Albertus Magnus Society voted to change the design of their key and to adopt a new coat of arms. The key, which will be ready next year, will be presented to members who are eligible.

The coat of arms, in the form of a shield, shows that the college stems from the Precious Blood Society and that the society flows from the college. It also symbolizes the agreement of science and theology, and that the club is dedicated to St. Albert the Great.

The shield will be divided into three sections, colored in gold, black, blue, silver, and red.

During the meeting this year's work was completed and plans were laid for next semester. Special emphasis was placed on science day, and the commission the society holds in the National Federation of Catholic College Students.

A movie on the production of magnesium from the sea was shown. William Jackson, Portsmouth, Ohio, sophomore, presented a paper on color and color mixtures.

Community Student Wins Oratory Award

Robert Conway, sophomore Community student from Roseville, Mich., won first prize in the Guedelhoff Oratory Contest held in the College Theatre Wednesday evening, May 14. The title of his speech was "Displaced Persons." He received an award of fifteen dollars. All contest entrants are sixth-year students in the Precious Blood Community.

Robert Reinhart, Bryant, Ind., was awarded the second prize of ten dollars for his talk, "The Dawn of a New Civilization." "Jungle Missionaries," by Richard Grever, Cincinnati, Ohio, took the five-dollar third prize. Other entrants and their topics were Donald Ballman, Dayton, Ohio, "Is There a Remedy for Commercialized Medicine?"; John Bolan, South Orange, N. J., "Of Ice and Men"; and Leo Tonner, Rensselaer, "The Orator of Mary."

Judges for the contest were the Revs. Joseph Hiller, c.p.p.s., associate professor of German; Christian Staab, c.p.p.s., associate professor of physics and mathematics; and Charles Robbins, c.p.p.s., instructor in classical languages. The Rev. Ildephonse Rapp, c.p.p.s., professor of English and speech, presented the awards at the conclusion of the contest. All the talks were products of the entrants' own composition.

Mr. John Guedelhoff, an Indianapolis business man, attended St. Joseph's from 1910 to 1913. He has sponsored this oratory contest for the past five years, and he recently made it known that he desires to continue the speech competition in his name.

Dividends Declared For NSL Insurance

Dividends will eventually be paid to veterans carrying a National Service Life Insurance policy, according to information received from the Veterans Administration Office. Amounts payable will depend upon the size of the policy, the age of the insured when he took out the policy, and the length of time that he has carried it.

Though it will be some time before these dividends are paid, the VA has instructions to keep veterans posted on insurance rights and benefits. Computing these dividends is a tremendous task, which makes it impossible to estimate when they will be paid, says the VA.

Alumni Receive New Members Into Association

Members of the graduating class, Community students departing for the seminary and others who intend to leave St. Joseph's at the termination of the present semester were officially accepted into the St. Joseph's Alumni Association at an informal meeting held in the cafeteria early last evening. Mr. Paul Monastyrski, national secretary of the association, presided at the meeting.

In a brief talk to the new members, the secretary pointed out the significance of the association and some of the benefits which its members can receive from it.

He added that in order to form a more unified organization it will be necessary for members to keep the alumni office informed of addresses and address changes; supplied with these data, the office can then keep in touch with members of the alumni association through the monthly publication, Contact.

Mr. Monastyrski then explained that to be an alumnus a man must have been a student in good standing at St. Joseph's for at least one year. He expressed the hope that in future years mass receptions into the alumni association, such as this year's, would become a school tradition.

The new members were presented with cards denoting their membership in the association. Refreshments were served at the meeting.

Campus Philatelists Observe Postage Stamp Centennial

FACLEX, abbreviated name of the Farley Stamp Club Exhibition, was held in the library Wednesday and Thursday of this week. On display were individual collections owned by the Rev. Gilbert Esser, c.p.p.s., moderator of the club, and by members of that organization.

The exhibition at St. Joseph's was arranged to run concurrently with the Centennial International Philatelic Exhibition which is now being held in New York. Robert Miller, Rockford, Ill., freshman and vice-president of the club, represented Collegeville at the international exhibition. He returned to St. Joseph's Wednesday after three days in New York.

Because this year is the one hundredth anniversary of the use of postage stamps in the United States, such stamp displays possess a special significance.

On display in the library were more than thirty-five frames of various items of postage. Included were precanceled varieties, city postmarks, covers, both old and some of the later first day covers, postal cards, and several stamps made famous because of errors which occurred in their engraving. Foreign stamps included sets from the Vatican, British colonies, and others.

Several members of the group prepared frames for the display from their own personal collections. Visitors were asked to indicate on a ballot which frames appealed to them mostly. A collection of coins was also exhibited in one of the library display cases.

This year's stamp exhibit was the revival of a previously established custom. The exhibitions were not held during the war years.

Material Availability Sets Completion Date

The Recreation building, donated by the government, will be ready for occupancy next semester if all the materials are available. The foundation has already been staked out and the concrete poured.

The greater part of the trusses have been erected, and as soon as the asbestos roofing arrives that will be added. At present the carpenters have been delayed in their work by lack of doors and windows.

When completed the 51 x 144 ft. building will have cost the government approximately $50,000.00. It covers an area of 17,314 sq. ft. and will be equipped with an oil heating plant.

Telepathy Discussion Interests Audience At Final Seminar

The Rev. Cletus Kern, c.p.p.s., assistant professor of philosophy, concluded the current theological seminar series sponsored by the Division of Religion and Philosophy last Friday evening in the classroom building. Father Kern's topic was "Extra-sensory Perception," popularly known today as mental telepathy.

In his talk, Father related the present prevailing theories concerning the composition of mental telepathy; he also described various tests which are given to subjects in order to prove that extra-sensory perception actually does exist, and that many apparent coincidences are not the product of mere chance.

Father stated that extensive study is being undertaken by certain foundations devoted specifically to the attempt of solving for the unknowns concerned with mental telepathy.

A brief question and answer period was held at the conclusion of Father Kern's talk.

Two other speakers appeared in this series which was begun this semester: The Very Rev. Henry A. Lucks, c.p.p.s., president of the college, spoke on "The Integration of the Curriculum," and the Rev. Edwin G. Kaiser, c.p.p.s., chairman of the Division of Religion and Philosophy, discussed "The Fate of the Unbaptized Infant."

Nutrition Experts Pay Campus Week-end Visit

Campus visitors over the past week end included Miss Margaret Davidson, director of the Home Economics Division of Hotpoint, Inc.; Miss Agnes Reasor, director of the Home Economics Division, Cereal Institute; and Miss Isabelle Peterson, of Swift and Company, consulting dietitian for plant cafeterias in the United States and Canada.

ENJOYING AN AFTER-DINNER CHAT at the recent Commerce Club Banquet are the Revs. Cletus Dirksen, c.p.p.s., moderator of the club; Frederick Fehrenbacher, c.p.p.s., toastmaster; Mr. Frank Travers, Fort Wayne, vice-president of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., who was the guest of honor and main speaker; and Fred Berghoff, Fort Wayne junior, president

The End Of A Perfect Decade

With this issue of STUFF, Volume X resigns itself to the campus bookbindery, there to undergo the various processes necessary for its permanent preservation. Then into the archives the volume will be placed beside its predecessors, and the first decade of STUFF's existence will have been completed. Indeed, much has happened in the past ten year's time.

Beginning with few pictures and a minimum of kinds of type from which to select for the sake of variety and appearance of make-up, STUFF was published under various formats down through the years until 1940. The five-column tabloid-style publication, which is characteristic of STUFF today, was begun in the fall of that year. Since the first edition in 1937, a great amount of newsprint has been fed into the press in the continuance of the story of St. Joseph's College.

Necessarily curtailed to monthly publication

Stars Bow To Mary

On Mother's Day, May 11, one of the most beautiful tributes paid to our Blessed Mother came in a coast-to-coast broadcast of Father Patrick Peyton's Family Holy Hour. In the program, acted by well known stars, the life of Mary was dramatized. Besides presenting the life of Mary, it portrayed the joys and sorrows experienced by all mothers.

This is just one example of the many programs that have been broadcast twice a week—Thursday night at 9 o'clock over station WBAA, and Saturday night at 8:30 over station WGN—for the past three months. Father Patrick Peyton, C.S.C., is sponsor of the program. His present contract is for twenty-eight weeks.

The program is an enjoyable thirty minutes of music and drama based on the values of family life. The names of the stars of the program are well known to millions of movie goers. Some of the more outstanding include Loretta Young, Irene Dunne, Margaret O'Brien, Rosalind Russell, Spencer Tracy, Pat O'Brien, Don Ameche.

These people, along with the playwrights, have donated their time to help Father Peyton in his work. The Mutual Broadcasting system, too, donated its facilities so that the only expense that has to be met is that of the technicians.

The Sanguinist Club on the campus is now sponsoring a drive to raise funds to help defray these costs. The donations that the students make, coupled with those of other generous Catholics, will insure the continued existence of the program.

A Line Now And Then

For both graduates and undergraduates who will be leaving St. Joseph's permanently after the tests, we ask that you keep in contact with the school through the Alumni Office. By making arrangements to subscribe for the campus publications, Contact, the alumni paper, particularly, you can not only keep up with the school news but remain informed of the many friends that you made here.

"Keep hard at it," fairly sums up our sentiments toward the returning students, the college militant. To those departing, the college triumphant, we can only say, "The best of luck, write once in a while, and God Bless You."

through the years, STUFF returned last September, as did many of those students who were its readers in the pre-war days also, as a weekly once again. Along with industry, STUFF'S reconversion to its pre-war peacetime efficiency was not without its uncertain moments.

In closing, it is the hope of the present staff that the link which it forged into the now ten-link chain of Collegeville journalism will prove to be worthy of its position trailing behind its nine illustrious predecessors. It is the hope, likewise, that succeeding staffs will take advantage of current-year journalistic advancements, and current-year mistakes, and capitalize upon them to the utmost.

To the advertisers, who deserve Collegeville's patronage whenever possible and practical; to the photographers, whose willingness to work at any hour of the day or night was never found wanting when engraver's deadlines were involved; to the faculty advisers, whose instruction and suggestions lighted up many a blind alley; to all whose cooperation made the publication of the paper a bit easier, STUFF doffs its masthead in appreciation. Accompanying this appreciation is a sincere urge that this cooperation will be extended into the future so that this year's STUFF staff's best wishes for the success of next year's Volume XI will be fulfilled.

Pillars Of Freedom

CHRISTIAN BOOKS

The Idiot by Fyodor Dostoyevsky.

The theme which obsessed Dostoyevsky during his entire creative life found its fullest expression in this novel. In it he realized, as no psychologist or novelist has before or since, that strange admixture of exaltation and degradation, the virtues of a saint and the defects of the simpleton, to be found in an individual soul.

Rome and the Counter Reformation in England by Philip Hughes.

This is a pioneer attempt to describe as a whole the measures the Catholic Church adopted to counter the Reformation in England. It describes what an outmaneuvered Catholic majority did in reply to militant and successful anti-Catholicism, in what spirit these Catholics acted, who led them, and how and why their endeavor failed.

Statue For a Square by Francis MacManus.

This is Francis MacManus in an unusual vein of genial satire combined with rich and often riotous comedy. The flow of the narrative is full and strong, the persons convincing, and the climax unexpected. The action takes place in an Irish provincial town. This Age and Mary by Michael O'Carroll, C.S.Sp.

The main theme of this work is the personality of Our Lady as it meets the numerous problems confronting the world today. It proves to us that by turning to Mary, Queen of the world, that we are enabled to conquer the world, steeped in immorality.

Patrick Henry and the Frigate's Keel by Howard Fast.

Conceived as entertainment, pure and simple, these twelve historical stories of the American past are superb examples of the storyteller's art. The art, seemingly effortless, brings to life again the days when the nation was young, when its first great battles were fought, when the frontier reached westward.

FOLLOWING THE FLICKERS

With Dick Causland

RITZ THEATRE—May 25-27—The Farmer's Daughter—A romantic comedy with an important congressional election for a background, stars Loretta Young, Joseph Cotten, and Ethel Barrymore. Miss Young plays the part of a Swedish farmer's daughter who eventually rises to Washington's heights. Unobjectionable for general patronage.

May 30-31—Blondie's Holiday—Anything can happen when Dagwood takes to playing the ponies, and in this film it does. Besides losing his job Dagwood winds up in jail. The ever resourceful Blondie rescues him. Chic Young's famous characters are played by Arthur Lake, Penny Singleton, and Larry Simms. No decency rating available.

PALACE THEATRE—May 25-27—Little Mister Jim—Little "Butch" Jenkins has the lead in this picture and is supported by James Craig, and Frances Gifford. It is the story of a boy who loses his mother early in life and must depend upon his father and a Chinese houseman to take her place. Unobjectionable for adults.

May 28-29—Temptation—Placed in Class "B," objectionable in part, by the National Legion of Decency. May 30-31—Desert Patrol—Dave Austin, played by Bob Steele, matches his wits and life against Apache Joe, a ruthless killer, in an effort to clear Marion Weldon's brother's name. There is plenty of action in this drama of the old west before the brains of the outlaw gang is exposed. No decency rating available.

What Do You Think?

Here Are Views Of A Few

With the activities of school coming to a fast conclusion, moments of reminiscing about the past school year become quite frequent. So while looking over the happenings of these last two semesters we decided that the question should be: "In your opinion, what artist on the Speckbaugh Memorial Series was the best, and why?"

Emil Michon, freshman, Chicago, Ill., selected Henry L. Scott, concert humorist. The reason for his selection was, "His comedy combined with his skill at the piano proved most enjoyable."

Economics major Tom Smith, Highland, Ind., was quick with his reply, saying, "Teresita and Emilio Osta were by far the best. The sister's dancing plus her brother's artistry at the keyboard made a fascinating pair to be seen and heard."

A Monroe, Mich., student, Joe Patania, ran over the list of talent presented here and when he came to the Don Cossack Chorus he gave a definite sign of delight. "Twenty-seven professional voices can't be beat," said Joe. He further adds, "Their powerful singing and perfect unison were overwhelming."

Freshman Ed McKinley, Saginaw, Mich., recalled the talent of Todd Duncan. Ed remarked, "His rich baritone voice with his variety of songs will always be remembered by me. He seemed to live each song that he sang."

Pre-engineering freshman Ken Bluett, Chicago, Ill., was another who liked Todd Duncan. "In my estimation," Ken said, "his interpretation of each number was excellent. He gave such feeling to his renditions that one had to like him."

The choice of Clarence Burwell, Kalida, Ohio, was that of the Don Cossack Chorus. He had a number of reasons. Among them were: "Their tone quality was delightful to all music lovers. Singing a capella is most difficult but for this group with its richness of melody it was as natural as could be. Then there was the startling exhibition of knife-juggling which was most amazing."

Coming from Kokomo, Ind., English major Pat Ormsby decided that Mr. Scott was tops on his list. For such a place of honor, Pat gave the following answer: "The variety of his program was a relief from the heavy classical programs that were exhibited."

Also agreeing that Henry L. Scott was the best was Frank Long, Richmond, Ind., accounting major. Frank commented, "Scott's presentation of comedy, his classical and semi-classical songs were high in entertainment value."

CAMPUS CAPERS

Well, the year is almost shot. Quite a few things have happened since last September. Probably the most significant was R. W. Mohr's efforts in the Commerce Club. Since he has been given a key by that organization his home town of Terre Haute has officially made him a hero.

Everyone seemed to have enjoyed himself during the weekend of the Prom. The evening, or rather, the morning was climaxed with a delightful dip in the pond in front of the Ad building. Evansville and Noll Hall supplied the aquatic athletes.

Speaking of Proms, the academy boys showed up with some swell dates for their dance last week.

Worst Joke of the Week Department. (Since there wasn't any issue last week we are palming off a double-header this time.)

Hank Deiters: Did you ever take chloroform?

Joe Small: No, who teaches it?
Ed Wahl: I killed your cat. I shall replace the animal.

Pat Purdy: That's kind of you, but I don't see how you can catch mice.

The Vet's Club's little outing last week certainly couldn't be classified as a dull affair. There is talk of giving campaign ribbons to all who participated in Operation Gravel Pit.

Fritz Fehrebacher and Rich Mil-kint have started a new fashion note for ivy-covered students. Every Monday is Dealer's Day and a vest is an essential article for that day's attire.

Another fashion note: This time in the tonsorial department. It's those butch haircuts that are coming out with the first tulips. Especially notable is the one adorning (?) the cranium of Harvey Schneider. Harv explains it all as an accident. He says that he fell asleep while lying on the lawn. He didn't wake up until the lawn mower had already gone over him.

Now it is time to say Aw Resivoir. Address all time-bombs and such to Vito. He can open them. His luck can't hold out that long.

"Psychologically, do you think that spring is conducive to motivation?"

Collier Oulps

By Joe Collier

As we sit down to write this column, realization dawns that it will be the last of the current school year. We sincerely hope the words contained from week to week have brought some small source of entertainment and possibly enlightenment on the obscure facts of various sporting events.

Big news on the campus lately was the basketball and intramural banquet featuring the presentation of the outstanding-athlete trophy. The column would like to take this opportunity to congratulate George Ellspermann, the choice for this attractive prize.

We would also like to commend Tom Scollard and Heiny Kauffmann, nominees for the trophy, the graduating seniors, and all the fellows who participated in various athletics.

Other highlights particularly enjoyed was the address on the necessity of college athletics delivered by the Rev. Edwin Kaiser, c.p.p.s., chairman of the athletic board, and the delicious steak dinner prepared by Miss Brown.

Charley Hodges got cuffed around a bit in the recent game with Indiana University. It was his first loss while pitching for St. Joseph's. Undoubtedly it was a tough one to lose, but as many fellows have remarked already, the best have their bad day. A sterling example this year is the story of Hal Newhouse, probably the best southpaw in big leagues. His pitiful showing at the beginning of the season would hardly indicate such a fact.

Vince Guckien is still moaning about the freak play happening against his team the other night. With a man on base, one of his teammates sent a scorching line drive down third base. The third baseman could only deflect it. His deflection sent the ball right into the hands of the shortstop who doubled the runner.

Speaking about intramural softball, we note that Harry Martinbianco of the Dungeoneers team pitched a no-hit game in league competition. Harry hails from Flint, Mich., and has pitched this brand of ball consistently in leading his team to four consecutive victories.

Paul McCaslin and Bob Meiners traveled to Chicago last week at the invitation of Ed McElroy, former academy student, and now associated with Bob Elson in the sports announcing and writing field. According to Paul and Bob, they were practically given free rein in Comiskey Park, with gratis ducats, box seats, and introductions to radio executives.

Recently Paul Monasyrski, alumni secretary, was guest on Ed's sportscast beamed over a Hammond, Ind., station. Ed has gone a long way in his field, and we hope that he progresses still more with the passing of time.

Bill Stern, "The Colgate Man is on the Air." Time to get out the handkerchief and listen to a man who approaches Maurice Evans in the profession of dramatics.

Mr. Stern, to our mind, for all of his voice wavering and tension building is the best sports announcer on the air, especially in the line of football. An interesting fact was learned from his last broadcast. Fr. Flanagan's Boystown started on a fifty dollar contribution by the late fiery John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants.

Have a good time this summer, see some ball games, and watch the Cardinals.

Trucks Roll In Library

Two rubber-bumpered oaken book trucks have been added to the library during the past week. The trucks have a French gray finish to match the tables, shelving, and other furniture in the library.

Double-Header Closes 1947 Athletic Season

"ANOTHER DECORATION for the room," says Heiny Kauffmann, right, Louisville, Ky., to roommate and Dempsey-trophy winner, George Ellspermann, left, Evansville, Ind. Tom Scollard, Indianapolis, is indifferent about the whole thing.

Indiana Trips Pumas, 20-8, For First Loss This Season

By Bill Fox

Indiana University dealt St. Joseph's Pumas their first setback of the 1947 baseball season on May 13 when they soundly trounced the Collegeville nine 20-8. The loss was also the first suffered by the Pumas' ace hurler, Charlie Hodges. Hodges, who was removed from the box in the fifth inning, had previously recorded three consecutive victories. Hank Knight and Tom Lynch finished the contest and although faring somewhat better than Hodges, were touched for five additional runs.

Sycamores Triumph, 1-0; Hodges Allows Four Hits

Scoring one all-important run in the fourth inning, Indiana State edged out the Pumas on May 20 by a score of 1-0. The defeat was the third in succession for St. Joe and the second in a row for southpaw Charlie Hodges who hooked up in a pitcher's battle with Sycamore hurler Roeschlein. St. Joe had previously defeated State in Collegeville 11-8.

It was not a day for the hitters in Terre Haute. Only six hits were made, four by State and two by the Pumas. Roeschlein, who worked two innings in the Sycamore's Collegeville appearance, was in rare form. He allowed but two singles, fanned six, and walked one. He allowed no Puma baserunners to advance beyond first base. Two Sycamore twin willings aided his cause as he faced only 28 men, one above par.

It was an unlucky day for the Pumas' Hodges. He twirled good enough ball to win most games, but was faced with the excellent mound job turned in by Roeschlein. He gave only four base hits, keeping them well scattered, struck out six, and walked four. It was his fourth inning pass to Len Rzeszewski that led to the winning run.

The fatal fourth opened with Hodges' walk to the State shortstop. Rzeszewski advanced to second on a sacrifice and to third on an infield out. He scored from there when Chew slapped a bounder through the box which second baseman Alex Melyon fielded, but on which he could make no play.

Alex Melyon and Cy Bohny got the only base blows given by Roeschlein. Bohny's came in the eighth and Melyon's in the ninth.

Dungeoneers Lead Softball League With Perfect Slate

Although finishing far down in the intramural football and basketball standings, the Dungeoneers of Dorm III have established themselves as the team to beat in the intramural softball league. At present they lead the eight-team circuit with four wins against no losses. Joe Albers' C.P.A.'s run a close second with three victories against a single defeat. The Dungeoneers recently defeated the C.P.A.'s to drop them into second place. The current leaders have been receiving excellent pitching from

The Pumas received one satisfaction from the game. They scored first, Maurie Angermeier tallying in the opening round on George Ellspermann's triple. This lead was short-lived, however, as Indiana manufactured six-first inning scores. Hodges' wildness and five base knocks had much to do with the Hoosiers' first inning rebellion.

Indiana added three in each of the second, third, and fourth frames, two in the sixth, and finished with three in the seventh. St. Joe tallied one in the third, one in the fifth, two in the sixth, one in the eighth, and a pair in the ninth.

Normington, Lawecki, and Smith all worked on the hill for the Hoosiers, the Pumas touching them for nine hits. Cy Bohny continued his torrid batting pace by slapping out three hits.

Job-Hunters Note: F. B. I. Searching For Special Agents

Recent announcements have been received stating that positions are available as special agents in the Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice. The beginning salary paid to a special agent is $4,525.80 per annum.

Qualifications for the position of special agent include being a male citizen of the United States, 25 years of age or over. An A.B. or B.S. degree from college, willingness to serve in any part of the U. S. or its territorial possessions, and qualifications for the operation of passenger carrying vehicles.

righthanders Jim Flood and Harry Martinbianco. The latter recently entered the softball hall of fame when he hurled a no-hit game against the U-Name-Its. Each of the Dungeon twirlers has won two games. The hitting has also been above par. Catcher Bob Roe, third-sacker Bill La Voie, and second baseman Al Ciesielski have been clubbing the ball particularly well. Standings of the league as of May 19 are as follows:

	W	L
Dungeoneers	4	0
C.P.A.'s	3	1
Luke's Huskies	2	1
Nauseating Nine	2	1
Goofs	2	2
U-Name-Its	1	3
Zorillas	1	3
Moron Nine	0	4

The Chicago Bears of the National Professional Football League will train in Collegeville again this summer.

Evansville Graduate Gets Dempsey Award At Hardwood Banquet

George Ellspermann, senior, of Evansville, Ind., was awarded the Jack Dempsey Sports Trophy at the basketball banquet held Wednesday evening, May 14. The trophy, given under the sponsorship of the Adam Hat Company, was voted by the students to St. Joseph's outstanding athlete for the year 1946-1947.

Ellspermann, football and baseball star, was one of three athletes nominated for the award by the student council, coaches' committee, and publicity department. The other two were seniors Tom Scollard of Indianapolis, Ind., and Heiny Kauffmann, of Louisville, Ky. The huge trophy and photos of the select trio were on display in the refectory for two days prior to the voting.

Returning to St. Joe after duty with the Navy during the war, Ellspermann was outstanding in the St. Joe backfield before an ankle injury forced him to retire to the sidelines for the last three games.

His prowess behind the plate is also widely recognized. He is one of the finest defensive catchers St. Joe has had, as well as being a potent .300 hitter. His long distance clouts have been very helpful in all the Puma victories this spring.

Nine members of the 1946-47 squad were also feted at the banquet. Basketball letters were presented to these nine. Awards were presented to the intramural football, basketball, and bowling champions.

NFCCS Issues Final Cogs To Remodel Quarters

Cogs, the official paper of the Fort Wayne region of the National Federation of Catholic College Students, will publish one more issue before the end of the semester, according to the Rev. Joseph Scheurer, c.p.p.s., moderator.

Physical requirements are that an applicant must be at least 67 inches in height; have ability to hear ordinary conversation, with both ears, at fifteen feet; uncorrected vision of not less than 20/40 in one eye, and 20/50 in the weaker eye; and at least 20/20 vision corrected. No applicant may be considered who is color blind.

Prior to receiving an appointment, an applicant must pass a written examination covering subjects of a practical nature. All applicants are required to pass a physical examination, at the U. S. Naval Hospital, given him subsequent to his arrival in Washington. Applicants are subject to strenuous physical exertion.

Further information for those desiring an appointment may be received from Mr. C. A. Moyer, P. O. Box 507, Hammond, Ind.

St. Joseph's Pumas will close the 1947 baseball season when they meet Great Lakes in a doubleheader tomorrow on the college field. Charlie Hodges and Hank Knight will attempt to bring the Pumas' victory total to seven.

To date St. Joe has won five and dropped three, losing their last three games in succession to Indiana, Valparaiso and Indiana State. Hodges has won three and lost two and Knight has won two without a defeat.

Art Cosgrove's track team closed its season today engaging Chicago Teachers in a meet at Chicago.

Valparaiso Hands Pumas First Conference Loss

St. Joseph's Pumas traveled to Valparaiso on May 15 to engage Valparaiso University and came home with their first Indiana Conference defeat. The Uhlans turned the trick 5-4, jumping on Puma pitchers Tom Lynch and Tom Berger for 13 hits and five runs. A last inning St. Joe rally, which netted two runs, fell one short when Gierke, Valpo hurler, settled down to emerge the winner. The second game of the scheduled twin bill was postponed because of rain.

The winning run for Valpo crossed the plate in the seventh. Gierke scored the run on Busch's single to right center. Then came the Puma ninth. After a brace of runs had scored on a walk and hits by Kuhn, Bohny and Greif, Gierke ended the contest by forcing Melyon to fly to left.

St. Joe got six blows off Gierke, who pitched good ball in every frame except the fifth and ninth. The Pumas defeated him 2-1 in Collegeville earlier in the campaign. St. Joe000 020 002 4 6 2 Valparaiso101 200 10x 5 13 1 Batteries: Lynch, Berger and Ellspermann.

150 Couples Whirl At Formal, Fitting Climax To Social Events

Approximately 150 couples attired gaily in tuxes and formals whirled through fox trots, sambas, waltzes, and fast numbers Prom night at the biggest social event of the year. Buddy Moreno, of vocalizing fame, and his orchestra supplied the appropriate melodies.

It was truly an evening of festivity, a fitting climax to the school year in the field of entertainment. Old acquaintances were renewed with the surprisingly large number of alumni and patrons. A spirit of conviviality dominated on the dance floor, and around the punch bowl, and in the Purple and Rainbow rooms.

Midway through the evening's procedures, the Grand March began. Led by King Heiny Kauffmann of Louisville, Ky., and Queen Donna Gray of Goodland, Ind., to the tunes of various college songs, it was something that will linger long in memory.

As the strains of "Good-Night Sweetheart" wafted away, many couples adjourned to the Brook Country Club.

Sunday was the day for reminiscing and viewing the sights of the campus. The girls departed amid heartfelt messages of a splendid time. This feeling was mutual.

The Fieldhouse Was a Dream
 The success of the Prom was due to many people. Those fellows who worked night after night to make the Fieldhouse as beautiful as it was! No other adjective could be more appropriate in describing the decoration scheme.

Twin Towers Awaits Mid-June Mailings

Twin Towers, the academy yearbook, will be ready for distribution by the middle of June, according to information received from James Bates, Fowler, Ind., editor. Arrangements have been made with the printers to mail the volume to the addresses as no secular residents will be on the campus at that time.

Anyone still desiring to buy a copy of Twin Towers may do so by contacting William Briody, Chicago senior in the academy, business manager of the yearbook. It is to be noted that all applications for a copy of the book must be made on or before May 29. The price is $3.00.

The Revs. Francis McCarthy, c.p.p.s., and Stanislaus Tuszyński, c.p.p.s., served as faculty advisers for Twin Towers.

Publicity Director Goes To South Bend

Edward Fischer, director of the news bureau and a member of the department of journalism at St. Joseph's College, will join the faculty of the University of Notre Dame in September, it was announced today by the Rev. Dr. Henry A. Lucks, c.p.p.s., president of St. Joseph's.

At Notre Dame, where he will hold an assistant professorship in the department of journalism, Mr. Fischer will teach and conduct an experimental newspaper.

The journalist was graduated from Notre Dame in 1937. Before coming to St. Joseph's in 1939, he had two years of newspaper experience in South Bend and Chicago. At St. Joseph's he pioneered the news bureau, the department of journalism, and the alumni newspaper.

During 43 months of military service, Mr. Fischer wrote four books for the War Department—two volumes of training literature and two volumes of history.

While serving in India, Burma, China, and Ceylon, he wrote the 100,000-word combat history of the Burma campaigns and escorted newspapermen in and out of the front lines. He was in charge of 55 foreign correspondents on the first convoy across the Ledo-Burma road, later known as the Stilwell Highway. After the cessation of hostilities, he was assigned to Theatre Headquarters in New Delhi to assist in writing the history of the India-Burma Theatre.

He returned to the United States with the rank of Captain in March, 1946, and resumed his work at St. Joseph's a few weeks later.

Distribution Of Phase Before Tests Improbable

Phase, the college yearbook, will probably not be ready for distribution to the students before the end of final examinations, according to information received from George Ellspermann, Evansville, Ind., senior, editor. There is a possibility, however, that the book will be on campus before the end of the Commencement exercises, June 1, Ellspermann said.

Sanguinists Sponsor Special May Devotions

As a means of honoring the Blessed Mother during the month of May, members of the Sanguinist Club residing in Gaspar Hall are reciting the rosary every night. Cell leader Robert Horky, of Chicago, Ill., leads the recitation.

This devotion begins nightly at 11:00 p. m. at a specially constructed altar in the second floor corridor. The response of the residents of the hall is gratifying.

At present members of the Sanguinist Club are sponsoring a drive to raise funds to help defray the costs of broadcasting Father Peyton's Family Holy Hour. Donations will be collected by club members during the coming week. A Mantola radio will be presented to one of the students on the campus May 26.

Approximately $270.00 was donated by St. Joseph's students in the combined collection for the National Shrine to Mary Immaculate, and for flowers for the Mothers Day triduum. Of this total $125.00 was used for the procurement of flowers for the grotto and the altars.

Members of the high school were included in the drive along with college students. The average donation per student was about fifty cents.

Biology Professor Shows Bird Slides

The Rev. John W. Baechle, c.p.p.s., assistant professor of biology, was the principal speaker at the tenth annual banquet of the Thomas Say Entomological Society. The banquet was held on the campus of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., last Monday evening.

Topic of Father Baechle's address was "The Life Cycle of the Cecropia Moth." Following the talk, Father exhibited slides and pictures of the cecropia moth. About sixty-five members of the society were in attendance at the banquet.

Wednesday evening in the college theatre Father exhibited and explained before members of the student body approximately 200 slides of birds which he had caught and photographed. Father Baechle recently showed his bird pictures at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Plans are now underway, and blueprints are being drawn up, to remodel the Sisters' quarters on the campus. If materials are available the work will be finished by the beginning of next semester.

UND Confers Ph.D. Degree On Economist

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Politics will be conferred upon the Rev. Cletus Dirksen, c.p.p.s., assistant professor of economics, June 1. Father Dirksen will receive the degree from the University of Notre Dame at its Commencement exercises.

Director of Father Dirksen's doctor's dissertation is Dr. Waldemar Gurian, professor of social sciences at Notre Dame. Dr. Gurian is remembered at St. Joseph's as having been the first speaker on the Commerce Club Lecture Series inaugurated last semester. The title of Father Dirksen's dissertation is "Critical Analysis of Richard Hooker's Theory of the Relation of Church and State."

Father Dirksen received his Master's degree from the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., in 1941. In addition to teaching economics here he acted as moderator of the Commerce Club.

Lettermen Elect Buckley Next President Of Club

Election of officers for the school year, 197-48, was the major business procedure in the final meeting of the Monogram Club, May 16.

According to the constitution, only a senior may be elected president. Jim Buckley, Whiting, Ind., letter winner in football and baseball, was the unanimous choice to succeed retiring president Heiny Kauffmann.

Johnny Lucas, Gary, Ind., will take over the secretarial position held this year by Buckley. Bob Esner, Evansville, Ind., was chosen to replace graduating Tom Scollard as treasurer.

In his last official address, Kauffmann congratulated the members on their splendid cooperation in every project the club undertook this year.

In the field of entertainment, the club decided on traveling to Remington, Ind., Tuesday, May 20, for a steak dinner. During the course of the evening, initiation of the new members earning letters in basketball will take place. Don Roman, Chicago, Ill., and Bill Ciminelli, Rochester, N. Y., were appointed to handle arrangements for this affair.

"Ten Little Indians" Concludes Season For Columbian Group

With two presentations of Agatha Christie's three-act mystery comedy, Ten Little Indians, the Columbian Players, campus dramatic group, closed its books for the present school year. The play was under the direction of the Rev. Lawrence Heiman, c.p.p.s., moderator of the Players. Father Heiman was assisted by Charles Burkart, freshman from Detroit.

Carrying the leading roles in the production were Helen Feldhaus, Rensselaer, as Vera Claythorne, and Howard Cummings, Chicago, as Philip Lombard. Also highly acclaimed by the audiences for their portrayals were Don Horst, Calumet City, Ill., in the role of Detective William Blore, and Clarence Burwell, Lafayette, Ohio, for his characterization of the part of Judge Wargrave.

All of the eight male roles in the play were carried by members of the freshman class. The three feminine parts were held by girls from St. Augustine's Parish, Rensselaer. The band, directed by Mr. Paul Tonner, B.Mus., played between the acts of the show.

The stage setting for Ten Little Indians, a living room scene, was the largest and most elaborate used this year; it extended over the entire depth of the stage. The set was modeled after that used in the professional production of the play.

The Columbian Players presented one other play, The Miser, a three-act social satire by Moliere, last semester; this was a costume production. Ralph Cappuccilli, senior from Monroe, Mich., and president of the organization, was cast in the leading role as Harpagon, the Miser.

During the present semester the name Columbian Players was given to the dramatic society, replacing its former title, the Columbian Literary Society. This step was taken to prevent any misconceptions of the purpose of the society in the minds of those students who were interested in amateur acting. The former name had been connected with the organization since its inception in 1891.

At the time of its origin, the purpose of the CLS was to improve its members in the arts of speaking, debating, dramatic expression, and parliamentary procedure. Lately, however, the club has been concerned mostly with dramatics.
